Who is City Networks?

City Networks is a growing relational community of cities that are committed to every person in their city having access to the gospel through churches and networks collaborating together for church planting, prayer, and other kingdom strategies. Having spring-boarded out of the growth of HCPN (Houston Church Planting Network), City Networks looks to share what they've learned in Houston, and create spaces for peer learning, relationships and mutual accountability.

What we do?

- Digital Workshops

Introduces the core ideas and practices around city-wide collaborative church planting networks.

- Annual Houston Immersion

This is for teams from cities around the world that come together for a 2-Day immersion. It's an opportunity to look under the hood of what we do in Houston, learn best practices related to formalizing a city-wide network, and receive input as you design a strategic action plan for your city.

- Quarterly Peer Learning Groups

After the live 2-Day Immersion, there are quarterly learning groups of partnering cities who want to continue the learning journey. Leaders will share best practices, resources, and tools. Additionally, there is live coaching on current issues and barriers. An in-person, annual cohort gathering will also be part of the experience as city network leaders meet for relationship building, dreaming, and resetting strategic plans together.

- On-site Envisioning & Strategic Coaching

HCPN leadership, and other city network leaders, will come to your city to envision leaders in your geography to help start a collaborative church planting network. Or, work alongside your current network to offer insights and coaching as you strategize for future development and scale for growth.

- Adopt a Global City

Not every church, or city, can afford to get the equipping they need. Churches with a heart for the world can be part of adopting a global city to help those leaders develop their efforts to start a city-focused network.

How Is City Networks Resourced?

All financial support for City Networks comes through donations for these offerings. We have suggested donations and hold to a "pay it forward" vision that will allow this to be sustained and scaled to serve more leaders in more places.

"HCPN's Learning Lab confirmed our suspicion that the Lord is doing something unique in Houston, which they generously allow to be a blessing to the global church. Observing in person some of what we've been told has provided the nuance that enables us to contextualize it to our cities, ask the right questions and dream in fresh, hopeful ways about the future of the church where we labour. I cannot recommend it highly enough, and intent returning with an bigger team representing more cities. We very much appreciate your willingness to freely pass on what God has been teaching you!" - Tobie Meyer, Executive Director City to City Africa
